TOO SMALL TO KEEP, TOO BIG TO THROW AWAY

All Levels

What do you do with all those scraps that are too small to keep, but too big to throw away?

Learn how to create new fabric using those fabric scraps that you just can't bear to toss. Then use your newly-made fabric to make a credit card sized wallet. If you choose the Extra Pocket pattern, you can probably complete your project in class! OR, if you have a favorite purse pattern, you may also bring it to class. You will create new fabric for your purse, but probably won't have time to complete a larger purse in class.

Supplies:

Scraps equivalent to 1/16 yard of fabric. Smallest dimension should be at least 1".

Scraps can be all the same fabric or many different fabrics (one or two colors work best).

If you don't have scraps, 1.5" to 2.5" strips can be used.

Fat 16th that coordinates with scraps (at least 9" x 10")

Fat 16th lightweight interfacing (at least 9" x 10")

Thread for piecing and embellishment

Neutral bobbin thread such as Bottom Line

1.5" hook and loop fastener such as Velcro™

Sharpie fine-point or ultra-fine point marker

12" wooden or acrylic ruler

Sewing machine with decorative stitch capability (zigzag stitch minimum)

Extension cord

Kit Fee (Optional): $4.50

Extra Pocket pattern is optional. Students may bring any small purse/wallet pattern of their own. If using your own pattern, check your pattern's fabric and interfacing requirements.
